Journey Down the Clackamas: Conference Sponsorship Opportunity

The Clackamas River Basin Council offers an exciting opportunity to support a series of presentations about our remarkable river. The Clackamas provides drinking water to hundreds of thousands of humans who live and work in suburban Portland, and thousands more who love and use the river, including conservation professionals, anglers, rafters, boaters and other outdoor enthusiasts as well as timber producers, nursery farmers, agricultural landowners and many others.

The Clackamas River is the source of drinking water for more than 300,000+ community members from Estacada to Oregon City, to West Linn, Lake Oswego and Tigard.

This Conference provides an opportunity for 15 months of bi-weekly sessions where your business or organization will be promoted!

Beginning in March 2021, the Basin Council will present a year-long series of seminars about the unique watershed and its natural resources, from the river's birth in alpine springs to its confluence with the Willamette River. Subjects range from geology, water quality and forestry to fish, recreational, cultural and public policy issues. It will occur in 33, one-to-two hour sessions, taught by local and internationally-recognized experts. The online seminars will be free to everyone.

With your support we'll tackle an extraordinary opportunity to educate the general public, professional engineers, scientists, political leaders, agency officials, educators and many others about the many facets of the Clackamas River basin, including some of the latest research occurring within its boundaries. We've assembled an impressive array of professionals to voluntarily share their expertise.

Your tax-deductible donation assures no barriers to attendance, with conference topics open to all participants without charge. Presentations will be held every other week and recordings from each session will extend viewing opportunities, from use in classrooms for student discussions, to restoration professionals, to local residents interested in stewardship and as an introduction for community members. For our sponsoring partners, these presentations provide a consistent opportunities for promotional messaging. To learn more about the Journey Down the Clackamas Conference, including a list of classes, please visit our website: clackamasriver.org/journey-down-the-clackamas-conference/
